

Elections Commission on SF.gov

Working with Digital Services

Accessibility and inclusion are the SF.gov design principles

SF.gov is the most accessible and inclusive website the City has

- Accessible to AA+ WCAG standards
- Designed for mobile devices, including older devices and browsers
- Content written in 5th grade English
- Human translations in Spanish, Chinese and Filipino
- Fast-loading pages work for people in 'data poverty'
- Information organized into 'topics' for people not familiar with City departments

Security and updates are taken care of

- DS does everything to keep SF.gov safe and operable
- Drupal 9 is fully supported and secure
- SF.gov is hosted on Pantheon and monitored by New Relic
 - In the past month, our uptime was 100%

Why move to SF.gov?

- In November 2022, Drupal 7 was end-of-lifed and has become a security risk. (SF.gov is on Drupal 9 and takes on all security updates)
- In November 2021, the City passed the Digital Accessibility and Inclusion Standard, which requires that City websites have a plan to follow the rules by March 2023.

What it means to be on SF.gov

For your staff

- Easy to edit and update
- Clear usage data and reporting
- Ongoing support from Digital Services with constant improvements

For San Franciscans

- Human translations
- Accessible
- 5th grade reading level
- Usability tested
